Over 60 happy women and one man attended the third Best Female Friend (BFF) Dinner organized by chairperson Irene Slattery and her committee for the Business and Professional Women of Englewood and Venice (BPWEV.) Centennial Anniversary for CC Sheriff's Office

This year, Charlotte County celebrates 100 years since its inception. In the April Charlotte County Sheriff's Office (CCSO) newsletter, Sheriff Bill Prummell shares these thoughts: CCSO pays homage to their past and current leadership through their continued dedication to providing professionalism and exceptional service to the community. Within the past century, CCSO has made tremendous progress in terms of technology and professional standards. To appreciate how far they have come, it's necessary to examine CCSO history. In May of 1921, Governor Hardee appointed J. H. Lipscomb as the first Sheriff of Charlotte County. The County was twice LeBeau was elected Sheriff. Under his leadership, the county began the modernization process: - utilization of computers, installation of the 911 emergency system, the formation of the youth Explorer program, inmate GED program and Neighborhood Watch program, and the first helicopter purchase. Presently, the Charlotte County Sheriff's Office has more than 600 sworn and civilian staff members. Sheriff Prummell states, "We are Charlotte County, each and every one of us."

Without Knocking on Doors

Due to the pandemic, it's been one year since Jehovah's Witnesses worldwide adjusted their hallmark method of knocking on doors to share comfort and hope from the scriptures due to the pandemic. In March 2020, some 1.3 million Witnesses in the United States suspended their door-to-door and face-to-face forms of public ministry and moved congregation meetings to videoconferencing.

On May 1st, GFWC Rotonda West Woman's Club celebrated the 47th Anniversary of its founding and Federation within the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC.) GFWC was formed 131 years ago and their message of "Love, Respect and Kindness for All" flows from GFWC founder Jane Cunningham Croly. Dedicated to community service throughout the club's 47 years, a primary focus has been education and scholarship within Charlotte County. Each year, the Rotonda West Woman's Club offers several College, Technical School and Continuing Education Scholarships at Lemon Bay High School and to members of the community. During the 2020-2021 Club Year, Education and Libraries Committee Chairman Debra Sigismondo researched and assembled Diversity and Kindness Library collections of over 50 titles designed to foster empathy, understanding and compassion in elementary school children. Two identical collections were delivered to Myakka River Elementary School and Vineland Elementary School on April 26. Rotonda West Woman's Club hopes and plans to extend this project to the middle school in the community as well. For information about Rotonda West Woman's Club or to join, please contact rwwcmembership@hotmail.com. You do not have to be a resident of Rotonda West to become a member.

"It has been a very deliberate decision based on two principles: our respect for life and love of neighbor," said Robert Hendriks, U.S. spokesman for Jehovah's Witnesses. "But we are still Witnesses, and as such, we must testify about our faith. So, it was inevitable that we would find a way to continue our work." Letter writing and phone calls are two of the ways Witnesses reach out to the community and distant relatives. Learn more about Jehovah's Witnesses at www.jw.org.

Fried Pickles and Reclining Seats

It's unclear what theaters are going to need to do to lure couch potatoes back to the movies. With most films available to stream on their release date, or soon after, at no or low cost to film fans, why would we leave our sofa and ditch our PJs to see a movie on a big screen?

I'll tell you why. I already spend too much time in front of my various home TVs. I have a wardrobe full of "real clothes," my chairs don't recline and I have no idea how to fry pickles.

I live about 5 minutes from the B&B Theatres Venice Galleria Stadium 11. If you haven't visited recently, you are in for quite a pleasant surprise. As I've mentioned before in this column, the lobby has been totally updated, as has the TV lounge just off the lobby. The leather recliners are insanely comfortable. The concessions now feature flatbreads and ladies, and gentlemen, the bar is open.

With limited film options, my daughter Emma and I decided to see Those Who Wish Me Dead, (R) figuring that Angelina Jolie's return to action movies fighting fire would be best-appreciated on the big screen.

From past experience, we correctly assumed that on a Sunday at 4 pm, we could safely select our seats at the theater, thus avoiding the online fee. After choosing our seats, we ordered a healthy dinner of mozzarella sticks, fries and fried pickles, to the total tune of about $40. Then I thought, "They put in this fancy bar with all this liquor and I'm not driving for more than two hours, so why not order an adult beverage?" My tall and very generous house vodka tonic set me back about $10. Totally worth it.

Because there was a delay in getting our food, the manager suggested we claim our seats and check back. I popped back during the previews and it still wasn't quite ready. Wouldn't you know that five minutes later, the manager comes right to our seats with our food. I'm not a big fan of popcorn, so I really enjoyed having this option and the pickles were my favorite.

Back to Those Who Wish Me Dead. Jolie is Hannah, a tough Montana smoke jumper who is still dealing with a failed attempt to rescue three young boys from a fire. After an intro scene where Jolie gets to show off with a couple of stunts, we find her stuck in a watchtower where she encounters a scared young boy on the run. Is this her chance for redemption?

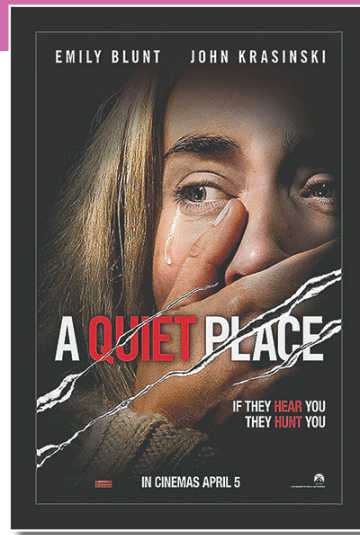

Based on a 2014 Michael Koryta novel and directed by Taylor Sheridan, the movie has way more running than fire-fighting, as Hannah helps Connor (Finn Little), elude two very focused killers who also set a fire to "distract" the entire town from their previous murders and shenanigans.

Apparently, Connor's dad, and a couple of other unlucky people, uncovered some not-to-be-named-later government conspiracy that demands all in-the-know parties die. This involves a bizarre cameo by Tyler Perry as a mystery man, who is the only thing that frightens the hit men. Ooh, we think, he's really going to cause trouble.

But he never appears again. Meanwhile, Jolie spends most of her time crawling, hiding and climbing. She gets hit by lightning and beaten up. The best scene actually goes to the very pregnant deputy's wife (Medina Senghore), who gets to exact revenge and ride a horse.

Ultimately, Those Who Wish Me Dead is disappointing and confusing. What secret did Connor's dad share with him that put his life in danger? We never find out. Who were the killers working for? No idea. The out-of-control fire set by the killers is vanquished with almost no drama States, closed all its theaters in October, 2020. After several delays, on May 20, the Regal 16 Cinemas at Port Charlotte Town Center Mall reopened. According to the company's website, all theaters are open under CinemaSafe protocols that "put the health and safety of guests and employees at the center of movie theatre operations." Masks and social-distancing will not be required for fully vaccinated guests and there will still be at least one seat left open between parties. Tickets can be purchased at regmovies.com and fandangocom or at the cinema. Concessions will be available but may be limited.

The toughest ticket this week will likely be A Quiet Place Part II (PG-13), the much-delayed sequel to 2018's huge horror hit A Quiet Place. Unlike most other recent films, it will be released in theaters only on May 28.

and zero Jolie. And yes, while it was great seeing Jolie back in action, the movie just didn't do her justice and even an excellent vodka and tonic could not fix that. B&B Galleria Cinema ★★★★★

Notable NEIGHBORS

When Our Country Called, He Answered

Though born in New York City in 1938 to a well-to-do Wall Street executive, Winsor G. Eveland, Jr. grew up as a country boy. How so? Well, when he and his fraternal twin Keith were three years old, Winsor Sr. inherited a 118-acre dairy farm in Richboro, Pennsylvania and—with the country still reeling from the Great Depression and a new hot war in Europe—promptly decided to become a white-collar farmer. Literally.

“Dad always wore a tie,” Winsor points out, “even when he was riding a tractor.” They had Guernsey cows, chickens, work horses and a hired herdsman, so the boys learned about animal husbandry at an early age. “We learned things my father didn’t know. We gathered eggs, tended cows and shoveled manure right up till we went off to college,” he says.

The boys prepped at George School, a self-described private Quaker “thinkubator” for future movers and shakers, and they were as different as twins could be. Keith was a top student and a talented artist who, at age 9, had one of his works on display at the Benjamin Franklin Museum in Philadelphia. Winsor modestly proclaims that he was “a lousy student who wanted to be a farmer and didn’t want to go to college.” But his dad had other ideas for him.

Dad won out, and Winsor went to Colorado State University, where he played two years of varsity football, put in four years of Air Force ROTC and “took every science course they had.” That included forestry, biology, geology, anatomy and neurology, and his allegedly mediocre prep school grades morphed into straight A’s as time went on. One summer he garnered a job as a lab assistant at Johnsville Naval Air Station, which specialized in space development for NASA. He got to meet the original astronauts, and, he confesses, “That’s where I really fell in love with the Navy.”

When he graduated from CSU in 1961, the U.S. was past the Korean War and into the Cold War with the USSR and Communist China. Winsor was concerned about the threat to his country, and he did something about it. “One day I was driving down a street in Denver,” he says, “and saw a big sign that said, ‘Fly Navy,’ and I said to myself, ‘That’s for me.’ I went in, took the tests, passed ‘em and signed up.” Thus began a military career that was to span 33 years.

Navy Captain Winsor, back in service at Norfolk (Va.) Naval Base in 1986

But first things first: He got married to Virginia Frazier, a classmate of his at CSU, and they took a brief honeymoon in Hawaii, a state he would spend much more time in during his naval career. Then it was off to Pensacola, Fla. for preflight training and, now an Ensign, on to Glynco Naval Air Station in Georgia for training with the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI) as an airborne combat information officer.

The ONI is not just concerned with protecting our ships at sea. Its mission encompasses the protection of America’s land, sea and air.

Using radar and sonar, it surveils the airspace above us and the submarine space below us. It tracks the location and movement not only of our ships, but also friendly vessels and those of potential or real enemies. ONI’s signal intelligence encodes our naval messages and decodes both friendly and enemy messages. As well, ONI provides threat assessments to our country’s National Security Council (NSC) and to the National Security Agency (NSA) for immediate action and long-term policy planning. It works closely with other U.S. military and civilian intelligence agencies to coordinate strategies and tactics. And it maintains liaison with foreign intel agencies to expand our worldwide awareness of potential problems.

At Glynco, Winsor studied radar operations, threat assessment and how to coordinate operations in a combat situation. When he left Glynco, Winsor was assigned to the Airborne Early Warning Squadron out of Barbers Point, Hawaii, and he spent the major part of his four-year tour in charge of a group of 16 radar technicians who flew along the Pacific DEW line, part of a perimeter the U.S. patrolled to monitor potential threats before they could reach our shores. They flew in Lockheed Constellations heavily laden with radar equipment, able to “see” 500 miles in any direction as they ping-ponged back and forth between Midway Island in the Mid-Pacific and the Aleutians off of Alaska. “We sent up another aircraft every four hours, and every flight took 12 to 16 hours, all over water,” he recalls. “We were mainly looking for Russian Bears (Tupolev Tu-95 bombers) and submarines.” It was boring, tiring, repetitive work, but extremely important to our nation’s security at that time, and someone had to do it. “If we encountered a blip on our radars, then we’d encode a message to Pearl Harbor.” The crews—and our country—were lucky that no blips turned into global confrontations. With the advent of advanced missile systems and newer detection strategies, the DEW line program was deactivated in 1965.

And in 1965, his original commitment to the Navy completed, Winsor opted for civilian life. However, he joined the U.S. Naval Reserve, which entailed a commitment to weekend training and annual participation in naval exercises or schooling. It also meant that he could be called back in case of need. As it turned out, Winsor was to be called back to duty nine times over the next 22 years.

One of the first USNR courses he took after finishing his initial commitment was in celestial mechanics, which enabled our radar teams to accurately calculate the trajectories of astronomical bodies and, more importantly, also manmade objects such as hypersonic planes and missiles. "That was a career-changing class for me," he says. Later he was called back to attend an advanced intel school at Willow Grove Naval Air Station in Pennsylvania. "All this training was wholly different from the airborne intelligence operations I had been doing before," he says. It broadened his knowledge of radar, computers, programming languages, advanced photo analysis, cryptographics and threat analysis, among other things.

Winsor and his wife bought a dairy farm in Union, Pa. in 1967 and settled down to what was more or less a bucolic civilian existence. But "the Navy kept calling me back," he says. "When they needed me they called me, and when they called me I went." For four years from 1973 to 1977 he served as an intelligence officer at Norfolk Naval Base in Virginia, commuting regularly from his home in Pennsylvania.

When that tour was up, the Navy needed him overseas, and he went to Rota, Spain to set up an "air shop." That's Navy jargon for an air support operation for America's Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean. The reason? The USSR was building up its naval and air presence there. Our Cold War adversary had submarines aplenty, but had only recently started building aircraft carriers and producing jets with VTOL (vertical takeoff and landing) capability. "We needed to keep tabs on them," Winsor says, and the Rota air shop, working closely with our European allies, was set up to do just that. While they were at it, they also monitored the activities of Muammar Quaddafi's Libyan regime, which was promoting terrorism throughout the Middle East.

This work was not without its risks. In June of 1967, the USS Liberty, an unarmed American reconnaissance ship traveling without a destroyer escort in international waters, was attacked by Israeli jet fighters and torpedo boats in the Mediterranean during the Six-Day War. Thirty-four crewmen were killed and 171 injured. On any reconnaissance jaunt, bad stuff could happen.

Winsor came back home in 1978 but was called to Washington DC in 1979 and served in the Pentagon's "war room" as a watch officer, "waiting for a crisis to happen." No crisis happened on his watch, but he kept on responding to calls from the Navy: in 1980 to serve as an ops officer for "Ocean Flag," a joint Navy/Marine training operation, and in 1981 to participate with the 18th Airborne Corps in war games to sharpen the skills of naval personnel in air support of amphibious operations.

In 1982 things started getting more serious. Winsor was again called back to Washington, this time to Bolling Air Force Base and the Defense Intelligence Agency, where he took training as a Chinese naval analyst. The People's Republic of China had been rapidly building up its navy, not only with conventional submarine and surface vessels but also with nuclear attack submarines and nuclear-powered ballistic missile subs. We needed to keep a close watch on that. As history has shown us, the PRC was to become a formidable naval power operating in the North, East and South China seas.

In 1983 Winsor was sent to London, England as a Soviet Air Analyst during the crisis in Lebanon, when a U.S. Marine barracks in Beirut was bombed in a terrorist attack that killed 241 servicemen, and the major Middle East players all went on high alert. In 1984, now a naval Captain, Winsor was assigned to the Naval Operational Intelligence Command in Suitland, Md. as a Soviet Air & Missile Analyst, this time collecting data from a variety of sources around the globe. And in 1987 he completed his final tour at the Defense Intelligence Command in Washington. Though he was under consideration for a promotion to Rear Admiral, Winsor elected to retire for good. He had divorced and remarried during his Navy years, and he and his second wife, Martha, decided to sell their Pennsylvania farm and move to Englewood in 1989.

Winsor is modest about his years of service. He had never had to look down the barrel of an enemy's weapon, and he says, "I'm no hero." But the risk was always there, and Winsor was one of the silent warriors who repeatedly took that risk for his homeland.

Now crowding 83 years of age, Winsor still has a lot of country boy in him. A farmer in his life apart from the Navy, he has a "down home" way of talking and writing that betrays his country upbringing, and he'll talk food growing and food products with anybody. But don't let that fool you. The real "country" in Winsor Eveland is the one he served so admirably each time he received a call.

Different ways to treat Dad for FATHER'S DAY

The month of June is filled with many different celebrations. Once summer arrives in June, schools shut down for a few month's worth of vacation and most recreational attractions, such as amusement parks and boardwalks, begin operating at full capacity. June also is the month to show dads how much they are loved and appreciated.

This year Father's Day takes place on Sunday, June 21, and marks the 110th anniversary of this day for dads. Even though Father's Day began as a regional event in the state of Washington, nearly 60 years later it would be recognized as a national holiday across the United States. Father's Day also is commemorated elsewhere in the world at various times of the year.

According to the most recent census data and statistics, there are 8.6 million fathers and father figures in Canada and 72 million in the United States. The following are some ways to treat dads this Father's Day.

Participate in his hobby

Dad likely has some favorite hobbies, such as playing a favorite sport, boating, hunting, woodworking, or restoring a classic car. Asking to join in to learn the ropes of his favorite hobby can be an ideal way to spend time with Dad and show you care.

Tackle his chores

off from his normal tasks around the house if they are within your skill set. Volunteer to mow the lawn, weed the garden, run for groceries, or get the car washed. You also may want to help him finish a project he started but hasn't yet completed.

Take in a show or a game

Maybe Dad has a favorite team he follows or a comedian he loves to watch. Purchase tickets so you can go in person. If that's not possible, make home viewing a special event by clearing a few hours of your schedule and setting up a comfortable viewing area. Make some special snacks and stream his favorite programming right at home.

Give him "his" space

Dads often make sacrifices for their families, and this could mean compromising on his comfort and pleasure to ensure everyone else has what they need. Create a spot that is entirely his own. This may involve renovating the basement or garage for hobbies or hanging out. Even a free-standing shed in the backyard can be billed as a "Dad Zone," giving your father a place to which he can retreat for some peace and quiet.

Start thinking of special ways to show Dad he deserves top billing.

FERTILIZER RESTRICTION

Both Sarasota and Charlotte Counties restrict the use of fertilizers containing Nitrogen and Phosphate from June 1 through September 30. This protects the water quality in our creeks, lakes and marine water that receive runoff from the storm water system. The counties suggest using iron, manganese and magnesium to help keep your lawn green. For more information, go to www.scgov.net or <http://charlotte.ifas.ufl.edu/horticulture>

WHAT TO PLANT

Annuals/Bedding Plants:

Annuals that can take full sun during the increasingly hot summer months include celosia, portulaca, vinca, and some coleus.

Palms: Summer's warm, rainy months are the perfect time to plant palms. Make sure not to cover the trunk with soil Herbs: Plant heat-loving herbs, including basil, ginger, summer savory, cumin, Mexican tarragon, and rosemary.

Vegetables: Plant tropical vegetables, such as boniato, calabaza, and chayote this month.

WHAT TO DO

Pests: Monitor the landscape and garden weekly for harmful insects. Knowing which insects attack a plant can aid in identification and treatment.

Irrigation: Watch for drought stress and water as needed if rainfall has been spotty. Focus on new plantings and follow watering restrictions. When rains begin, shut down the irrigation system.

Propagation: Produce more plants by air layering, grafting, division, or cuttings.

Palms and Cycads: Watch for nutrient deficiencies or other problems and use an appropriate treatment.

Pruning: Lightly prune summer-flowering shrubs, like hibiscus, oleander, and ixora, during the warmer months to increase blooming.

Lawns: Check frequently for damaged areas and keep insects in check with early treatment. Determine whether yellow and brown lawn patches are caused by chinch bugs, disease, or lack of water. Take time to determine the cause so your remedy is effective. Rejuvenate areas where grass does not grow well by replacing it with versatile groundcovers. Summer rains usually begin this month, as do lawn fertilizer restrictions in some areas of the state. Check with your municipality to see if this applies to your area.

Soil Solarization: Clean up your vegetable garden and solarize the soil for 4–6 weeks to kill pests and disease.

Lightning safety: Be safe outdoors during storm season.

summer DINING

BY SHARYN LONSDALE

In our ever-changing world and dining scene, life changes in a flash. Restaurant openings are delayed due to lingering issues from the COVID-19 crisis. Masks are mandated one day and optional the next.

The good news is, just as outdoor dining becomes a bit too hot for some, indoor dining is at full capacity almost everywhere and fully vaccinated people can dine comfortably without masks.

Still, many of us have gotten used to picking up food and having it delivered to our door. Mango Bistro will continue to offer free delivery within five miles of its Dearborn Street location for orders of $20 and more, on Mondays through Thursdays. And now that most people are returning back to the office, they are also ready with party platters of wraps and sandwiches.

There are also more options for dining out, with the recent addition of Cape Haze Tavern and with Libee's Sports Bar & Grill and Tjs Market Grill both opening soon. While many restaurants are still experiencing staffing issues and have had to alter their hours, others are doing fine. However, if you are looking for restaurant work right now, if you're experienced, you can likely walk into your favorite place and leave with a job.

The news is also good for local entertainers who struggled during the pandemic. Restaurants are booking, audiences are back and there's even dancing. As always, the best way to stay informed on who's playing where is to follow your favorite entertainers and venues on Facebook.

Libee's Sports Bar & Grill

Scott and Sarah Libertore, owners of Libee's Sports Bar & Grill at 1859 Englewood Road (Lemon Bay Plaza), have been in overdrive preparing for the restaurant's grand reopening on Friday, May 28. We won't dwell on the setbacks and delays, but Scott Libertore said, "It was really hard to get through the pandemic. The community rallied around us. Literally everyday 10 people came by and thanked us for what we were doing." Libee's had been open for patio service and to-go orders since February, 2021 while the interior was being remodeled. "It's a brand-new restaurant, you won't recognize it," said Scott. In addition to a new air conditioning system, kitchen and seating indoors, outdoors and at the bar, they added a pizza oven and even more TVs, bringing it up to a total of 44. "We really want to provide the best that we can in this town," said Scott. Sarah added that they were thankful to be able to retain most of their staff, as well. Libee's does have a new chef. Jim Baselici came to Libee's from a resort on Ana Maria Island. "He's bringing creativity to a traditional sports bar menu," said Scott. Added Sarah, "It's a sports bar, but you can also come here on date night."

"I feel so elated that we are here and overcame all these obstacles and can provide this to the community. It's great to be at the finish line," said

Libee's New Pizza Oven

Scott. The grand opening is at 5 pm and Libee's will be open Wednesdays to Sundays, 11 am to 9 pm. Visit Libee's on Facebook.

Bread Pudding. Freshly-shucked oysters will be available at the bar. Of course, there will be entertainment. One of the three rooms in the

Tjs Market Grill

It's not open yet, but Joy Kierstead has been welcoming curious passersby into Tjs Market Grill for weeks, showing off the Louisiana-themed restaurant's brightly-colored rooms and the chandeliers she made herself. "We're all about the locals," said Joy, who enjoys the tours. The restaurant took over the location at 8501 Placida Road, most recently the home of Placida Grill and formerly home to the popular Zydeco Grille, which also offered New Orleans fare.

Kierstead's husband, Tim Kierstead, is the chef/owner of Tjs. He had two previously Louisiana themed restaurants in Springfield, MO and Okotokas, Alberta, Canada. Joy said the couple moved here December 31, 2020 "with just our clothes." She said that they hope to open mid-June, as long as they are fully-staffed. With a total seating capacity of more than 160, Joy, who will manage the front of the house, has been interviewing potential staff every day. "We might have to open just at dinner," she said.

That dinner will include New Orleans mainstays like Gumbo, Jambalaya, Crawfish Etouffee and Bananas Foster restaurant is the Jazz and Blues room, and that's what you can expect to hear on weekends.

To request an interview, visit tjismarketgrill.com or call 941-214-5545. To stay updated on Tjs' opening, visit Tjs Market Grill on Facebook.

Savor Sarasota

You'll have to wait until September for the Englewood Florida Chamber of Commerce's annual local dining promotion Let's Eat! Englewood. But from June 1-14, you can enjoy a similar multi-course meal deal at Visit Sarasota County's Savor Sarasota. Diners enjoy at least a two-course lunch for $16 and three courses at dinner for $32. Farlow's on the Water is the only Englewood restaurant participating in Savor Sarasota (at press time). However, there are also three Venice restaurants, including the iconic Crow's Nest and Fins at Sharky's. The best deal I've found so far, Ristorante San Marco in downtown Venice, offers three courses plus a glass of wine at lunch for $16. For the most up-to-date restaurants and menus, go to visitsarasota.com/Savor-Sarasota.

If you have restaurant news and updates you would like to share, please email Sharyn Lonsdale at sharyn1111@gmail.com with subject line DISH.

Nearly everyone enjoys seeing manatees in the local shallow estuaries, bays, canals, and coastal areas. To help protect these imperiled creatures, please be aware while boating. Manatees are generally slow-moving and must surface to breathe air, so they are especially vulnerable to collisions with fast-moving watercraft – Number 1 cause of human-related manatee deaths. According to the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC,) most manatee deaths from watercraft collisions are caused by blunt-force impact, by speeding boaters who don't see them. Manatees that survive bear scars from their injuries. In fact, most living manatees have some sort of scar from a boat collision. Suggestions for collision prevention: Posted slow speed "manatee zones" indicate the likely presence of manatees and should be navigated through carefully. Boater's guides usually list the location of manatee zones and can be reviewed before each boat trip. In addition to obeying posted speed zones, those on board should keep a lookout for manatees in the water by wearing polarized sunglasses to see below the water's surface, and scanning for manatees' snouts, backs, tails, flippers, or "footprints" – the flat, circular spot on the water created by the manatee's moving tail. Boaters, paddlers, or those who spend time near the water are also encouraged to be a voice for manatees by immediately reporting injured, malnourished, orphaned, entangled, stranded, or dead manatees to the FWC or their local state wildlife officials. In Florida, boaters can contact VHF Channel 16 on their marine radio or call the FWC at 888-404-FWCC (3922). Learn more tips on spotting and reporting sick or injured manatees at savethemanatee.org/rescue. Save the Manatee Club offers free materials available upon request to help safeguard manatees and increase awareness of manatee-safe boating tips. Shoreline property owners can order aluminum signs alerting others to the presence of manatees in the area. Order free materials at savethemanatee.org/resources. Help Ensure a Successful Sea Turtle Nesting Season

The 2021 sea turtle season is underway, and beachgoers have no doubt noticed staked-off areas protecting nest sites and encountered Coastal Wildlife Club (CWC) turtle patrollers monitoring Manasota Key beaches in the early morning. Expressing a feeling probably shared by CWC's more than 150 volunteers, permit holder Wilma Katz said, "It's wonderful to be back on the beach!" With relaxed COVID-19 guidelines, beachgoers once again are welcome to approach CWC patrollers, maintaining a safe distance, to ask questions and observe them recording and staking off the nests.

Here are a few suggestions you can follow to help ensure a successful sea turtle nesting season:

At night during turtle season, ideally nesting beaches would be exclusively 'turtle territory.'

In the real world, though, people are on the beaches. Walk with only the light of the moon, if possible. If you must use a light, select a red light.

Sea turtles see red, but it is the least disruptive color for them. At night, moving or bobbing lights may deter sea turtles from nesting, so even a red light should be used infrequently and kept shielded with your hand.

When boating in nearshore waters, reduce the risk of boat strikes of turtles or manatees by using a wildlife spotter and by wearing polarized lenses to see into the water.

Remove objects (furniture, trash, poles) from the beach when you are finished for the day. These obstructions may hinder nesting or entrap female sea turtles and hatchlings.

And please take the time to fill in holes! These are hazardous to turtles and to people!

Loggerhead sea turtles begin to nest on this coast in late April. As of May 21st, Coastal Wildlife Club reported there were 404 loggerhead nests on Manasota Key. There is also one Kemp's ridley sea turtle nest on the north end of the key in Sarasota County. The first green turtle nest is expected in early June or before. Nest totals are a little lower than they were last year at this time, but it is too early to predict how busy the season will be.

Holes left on the beach overnight are hazardous to sea turtles and to people. CWC patrollers Charlene Demetrops (in photo) and Pam Wardzala filled this hole left recently on Manasota Key.

2021 HURRICANE PREPAREDNESS

1. Prepare Your Residence

First, know your flood evacuation level zone. This information can be found on the Sarasota or Charlotte County government websites. The website address for both counties is listed at the end of this article.

House

Hurricane research studies have shown that on average: homes built under the 2002 Florida Building Code sustained less damage, and when paired with shutters, may be safe to stay in as long as they are not in an evacuation area. Homes built between 1994 and 2001 under the Standard Building Code sustained more damage and homes built before 1994 fared even worse. Before storm season begins, take the following steps to protect your home:

- Secure loose rain gutters and downspouts, and clear clogged areas or debris.
- Secure and reinforce your roof, windows, and doors, including garage doors.
- Consider building a FEMA safe room designed for protection from high winds and flood waters.
- Learn how and when to turn off gas, water, and electricity.

Mobile or Manufactured Homes

Mobile homes are unsafe shelter in high winds no matter how well fastened to the ground. Take precautions to ensure that your mobile home is properly secured to reduce possible damage to your home and your neighbor's property.

- Check tie-downs annually. Make sure straps are tight, properly aligned and not on an angle.
- Verify that ground anchors and stabilizer plates have been installed properly.
- Be sure support piers are in contact with the frame.
- Replace straps or ground anchors that show signs of corrosion or damage.

For detailed information or to verify a contractor's license, call the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, Bureau of Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicle Construction at 850•617•3004.

- Secure loose rain gutters and downspouts, and clear clogged areas or debris.

For detailed information or to verify a contractor's license, call the Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, Bureau of Mobile Home and Recreational Vehicle Construction at 850•617•3004.

2. Checklist For Sheltering In Place

- Move all outside furniture and decorations inside when a storm is approaching the area.
- Clean bathtub or other large containers and fill with water.
- Drinking water, one gallon per person, per day, for at least three days.
- Canned food and a can opener.
- Paper items.
- Baby needs.
- Medications, prescriptions and a first aid kit.

- Battery-operated television or radio, flashlight and extra batteries.
- Cash (ATMs may be out-of-service).
- Pet supplies.
- Photocopies of important documents (birth certificate, license, and insurance).
- Full tank of gasoline in your car.

3. Storm Damage Help

If your home is damaged by a storm and you need help besides your homeowner insurance, call the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to apply for assistance at 800•621•FEMA (3362). Have ready for the call: your Social Security number, homeowner, flood, auto and/or mobile home insurance policy, total pre-tax annual household income and be able to give a description of the damage. You also need your banking information (routing number and account number) for direct deposit information, if assistance is approved.

Operation Blue Roof is a FEMA program that provides a temporary covering of blue plastic sheeting to help reduce further damage to property until permanent repairs can be made. The program is available at no cost to homeowners in FEMA-designated areas after a storm. Homeowners must sign a Right of Entry form to allow government employees and contractors onto their property to assess damage and install the temporary covering.

4. Evacuation Shelters

If you determine your home is not safe to ride out a storm, try to stay with a friend or leave the area. If you can't, be aware that Englewood and Venice have no evacuation centers. Charlotte County has no certified Red Cross shelters. In the event of a hurricane, Charlotte County staffed shelters may be open, depending on size and direction of approaching storm.

The nearest evacuation shelters are listed below. There are other shelters in Sarasota.

- North Port High School, 6400 W. Price Blvd, North Port.
- Heron Creek Middle School, 6501 W. Price Blvd, North Port.
- Woodland Middle School, 2700 Panacea Blvd, North Port.
- Atwater Elementary School, 4701 Huntsville Avenue, North Port.

If you need transportation, get a ride to one of Englewood's rally points which are located at Buchan Airport Community Park, 1390 Old Englewood Road and Englewood Sports Complex, 1300 S. River Road. If you can't drive to a rally point, complete the online registration form online at www.scgov.net/emergencymanagement now. If you don't have a computer, go to the Elsie Quirk Library, 100 W. Dearborn Street, where a librarian will help you with online registration. The form must be filled out now at the beginning of hurricane season.

Special Needs Shelters are available for those individuals that require medical assistance that is not available at a public shelter. Only basic medical assistance and monitoring will be available. Oxygen will be provided to those who require it. You must register now at the season start. You can register online at the Florida Special Needs Registry: snr.flhealthresponse.com.

5. More Information

To learn more about hurricane preparedness, go to www.scgov.net/hurricane-preparedness for Sarasota County or for Charlotte County, visit www.charlottecountyfl.gov/hurricanes. You can also sign up for Alert Charlotte or Alert Sarasota for time-sensitive messages via phone, text, or email regarding emergencies. Also, information will be posted on county Facebook, Instagram, and Twitter accounts.

SHORE & KAYAK FISHING

BY KIMBALL & LES BEERY

Fishy Structure

You don't have to read many fishing articles to come across the word "structure." Some structures are manmade, while others are naturally occurring. Structure is everywhere and the successful angler learns to read it like a recipe. Structure, when combined with current and shadows, will tell an angler not only where a fish might be feeding but also what direction it is facing and where you should cast. Too many times, folks see a good spot and cast directly into it, often spooking the target gamefish.

Manmade structures like docks, seawalls, and artificial reefs hold gamefish only because they are a safer haven for baitfish and other prey. Baitfish will congregate there looking for food and the safe spots structure creates. If you're looking at docks as structure, focus on the shadowy area underneath the dock. You may have to skip your lure or bait underneath the dock to reach the strike zone. The area where the dock "T's" is of particular interest, as it creates the largest shadow area. If a dock has a boat lift designed for larger boats with a deep draft, even better. The area under the boat lift will be deeper, darker and cooler than anything nearby. If you do drop a cast perfectly under the dock, let it sink straight down and keep it there for a few moments before starting a slow retrieve. Don't be in a hurry to take your offering out of the strike zone.

Seawalls are another structure familiar to shore anglers and kayak anglers in southwest Florida. The best walls will have riprap along the bottom to absorb some of the wave energy that is constantly trying to tear them down. This rocky maze provides both food and cover for baitfish, crabs and other items on the menu. The wall itself creates an area where predators can crowd bait for a concentrated attack. When fishing seawalls, cast and retrieve parallel to the wall. That's the way most ambush predators expect to see baitfish moving along.

It's quite a surprise when a hard pulling grouper grabs a jig under a dock.

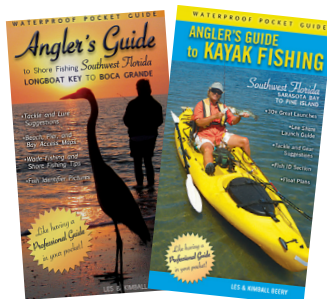

Natural structure can be as subtle as a slightly deeper sand hole on a grass flat or as obvious as an oyster bar. Spotted seatrout, in particular, are known for hanging out on the edge of sandy spots to ambush anything edible that drifts or swims across the opening. Other things, like tidal channels across a flat, oyster bars, and pockets along a mangrove shoreline or points where mangroves reach out from the shore, will act as structure in saltwater. In freshwater, pockets in the emergent shoreline vegetation are great spots to find bass and bluegill. They get pretty territorial about their particular spot. Points where vegetation grows out into the water force baitfish or other prey to venture into deeper open water as they move along the shore. Visualize how bait would get around any obstacle and retrieve your lure or bait along that same route for the best results.

When fishing structure, don't be discouraged if an errant cast hangs in a mangrove branch. We are firm believers that if you're not catching a mangrove every now and then, you're not casting tight enough to the shore. It may be necessary to skip a lure or bait into a pocket or under a dock, but practice skipping before you try it. Be particularly careful casting around boats. A lead head jig could ding the gel coat and get you into trouble with the owner. Also avoid climbing onto a dock if you land a lure on the top. Try to get it back with your rod but don't trespass on private property.

The good news is that the closed season for trout is ending next month. Starting June 1, 2021, the daily limit for spotted seatrout will be 3 fish between 15" and 19" in length per angler. Six trout including one over 19" are allowed PER VESSEL PER DAY. Big "gator" trout are usually larger breeding females that we rely on to replenish the population so try to avoid the trophy temptation. Please limit your kill; don't kill your limit. Release these big girls gently and alive so we can all enjoy better fishing in the future.

Kimball and Les Beery, authors of Angler's Guide to SHORE and KAYAK Fishing Southwest Florida, contribute these excerpts from both WATERPROOF books to promote the excellent fishing available in the Englewood area. They are available locally at Old Florida Gallery on West Dearborn, and for download at www.anglerpocketguides.com & www.amazon.com.

Ave. Estate-Planning Basics will be covered on Thursday, June 10. Joining Hunter will be Lori Wellbaum Emery of Wellbaum & Emery, P.A. who will review the basic elements of an estate plan, including last will and testament, power of attorney and health care directives, focusing on the specifics and benefits of each and the pitfalls to avoid. The seminar will also include planning tools for non-married couples and couples who have remarried, plus ways to protect yourself, your loved ones, and your assets. On Thursday, June 24, the topic is Becoming a Floridian, presented with Dean Hanewinkel of the law office of Dean Hanewinkel, P.A. Are you considering being domiciled in Florida or have moved here from another state to benefit fully from homestead laws, no state income tax and favorable estate planning codes? Will your out-of-state documents work in Florida as you had hoped? Join them to examine the checklist you need to complete to become a Floridian, common problems with other states' documents, and some helpful tips. To register for one or both seminars, visit www.Englewoodbank.com or contact

Hunter at 473•3629 or khunter@ebtfl.com. Due to limited seating, Hunter is asking attendees to let her know if they plan on bringing additional guests.

They did it! It was one year ago on May 15, 2020, that Cedar Valley Crafts, LLC, opened its doors to Englewood. Owner Lee Kurimoto and her husband Tom Renaud knew, "Yes...a terrible time to open a business, due to world economic downturn, Covid-19 restrictions, loss of supply and distribution lines. We decided if not now, when?" The business opened with twenty bolts of fabric and determination to succeed. Now, one year later, the store is full of everything needed for handmade quilt making and stock hand embroidery notions, Amish & Mennonite crafts, and there are 789 registered customers in their system! Sewing lessons also available. Lee thanks her customers and the support by the community. Cedar Valley Crafts, LLC, is located at 232 N. Indiana Avenue. Website: www.cedarvalleycrafts.biz.

Girl Scouts Celebrate Achievements

Gaia

Devyn

Carrisah

Sophia

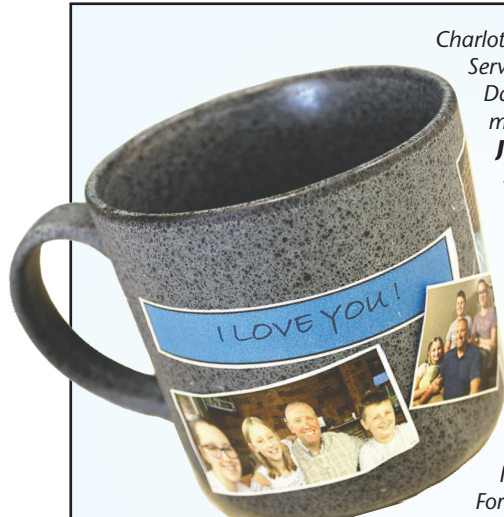

Kenzie

Ayva

On May 18, members of Girl Scout troops 330, 607, and 608 and their families gathered for a Court of Awards Ceremony. All girls received badges and pins, and several celebrated advancing to the next level: Daisies bridged to Brownies; Brownies bridged to Juniors; Juniors bridged to Cadettes; and Cadettes bridged to Seniors. Three girls received Girl Scouting's highest awards at their levels, and three others were recognized for achieving the next ranking in the Mariners program. Gaia, a member of Troop 608, earned the Girl Scout Silver Award, the highest honor a Girl Scout Cadette can achieve. She dedicated more than 50 hours to converting vintage Girl Scout photos and documents to digital format to help preserve the history of the Girl Scouts of Gulfcoast Florida County. Two girls from Troop 607 were presented with the Girl Scout Bronze Award, the highest award for Girl Scout Juniors. After learning that, due to the pandemic, visitors needed to wait outside to be called in for appointments, Devyn built a bench for Lemon Bay Animal Hospital, while Carrisah, concerned for the environment, made a bug house structure to provide shelter for insects, which benefits the ecosystem through pollination. Both Devyn and Carrisah are in grade five at Vineland Elementary School. Less than a year after the inaugural meeting of Girl Scout Mariner Troop 608, three members have achieved the next Mariner rating - Midshipmite. Sophia, who is finishing her freshman year at Lemon Bay High School, along with Kenzie and Ayva, current eighth graders at SKY Academy. For more information about Girl Scouts, visit www.gsgcf.org, or contact Connie Martin, Community Manager with Girl Scouts of Gulfcoast Florida, at 239-776-0751 or conniem@gsgcf.org.

'Spread Spencer's Sparkle' has awarded Spencer's Memorial Scholarships to two Lemon Bay High School seniors, Emma Sweiderk and Justin Rotolo. Emma and Justin are both very dear friends of Spencer, and he loved these amazing kids whole-heartedly. Spread Spencer's Sparkle was started after Spencer Stephens, a 2020 LB High School graduate, was tragically killed in an accident late last year. His family was crushed, along with the community, as Spencer was a popular and well-liked Englewood resident who lit up the lives of everyone he encountered. Since Spencer had been the recipient of a generous scholarship for his college start, a scholarship fund was established to continue to spread his "Sparkle." The Spreading Spencer's Sparkle movement can be as simple as spreading kindness, living authentically, and sharing the word of God. If you would like to learn more about Spencer and the legacy created in his name, visit Spread Spencer's Sparkle on Facebook or at www.SpreadSpencersSparkle.com.

It's Hot Out!

Don't Leave Your Pet in the Car!

A car can overheat even when the window has been left cracked an inch or two.

Young, overweight or elderly animals, or those with short muzzles or thick or dark-colored coats are most at risk for overheating.

Shady spots offer little protection on hot days, and move with the sun.

102°

120°

Even if the temperature outside is only 70°, the inside of your car may be as much as 20 degrees hotter!

On an 85° day, it only takes ten minutes for the inside of your car to reach 102°.

Within just 30 minutes, the car's interior can climb from 85° to a scorching 120°.

Many states and local governments have laws that prohibit leaving an animal unattended in a motor vehicle under dangerous conditions, which includes hot days. Your car could be damaged or you could be charged with a crime.

If you see an animal trapped in a car on a hot day, try to locate the owner or call 911! Stay by the car until assistance arrives.

Pets like to ride along with you on errands, but left alone in vehicles during Florida's hot summer days can prove deadly to your beloved pet! Infographic shared from ASPCA.

Englewood Animal Rescue Sanctuary (EARS) Adoption Center and Pet Store has found a new home right here in Englewood. They will be moving into Gulf Bay Centre, 500 North Indiana Avenue, right next door to Extra Space Storage. The space is a large open area that needs to be converted into cat rooms, offices, reception area and pet store. Both financial donations and volunteers are needed for the $15,000 building conversion. Especially welcome would be gift cards from Babe's Hardware and The Home Depot to help fund the purchase of building materials. If anyone is interested in helping EARS complete this move, your financial support and volunteer time would greatly be appreciated. Please message them on Facebook (EARS Englewood Animal Rescue Sanctuary) or email them at Englewoodanimalrescue@yahoo.com. The current location on West Dearborn is being sold by the property owner so EARS is fulfilling their dream of finding a location to better serve the pets placed in their care awaiting a new forever home. Target completion date is July 1st. The EARS thrift store will remain at its current location at 353 W. Dearborn Street.

EARS Animal Rescue's Thrift Store is the shelter's main source of income. The store on Dearborn is open Monday thru Saturday 10am-3pm. We are a 501c3 non-profit organization, so any donation is tax deductible.

Meet Mr. Bosley! He was found as a stray and brought to EARS. He is an orange tabby, neutered male with extremely long legs. Bosley is friendly and likes affection. He is between 2 and 3 years old.

This is Ollie. EARS has kittens, and although they are too young to be adopted, you can come play with them. That makes them more sociable around people when it comes time for them to go to their new home.

All of EARS pets are spayed or neutered, vaccinated and micro-chipped in your name.

EARS Animal Rescue's Thrift Store Is Now Open

Fun By The Numbers

Like puzzles? Then you'll love sudoku. This mind-bending puzzle will have you hooked from the moment you square off, so sharpen your pencil and put your sudoku savvy to the test!

Here's How It Works:

Sudoku puzzles are formatted as a 9x9 grid, broken down into nine 3x3 boxes. To solve a sudoku, the numbers 1 through 9 must fill each row, column and box. Each number can appear only once in each row, column and box. You can figure out the order in which the numbers will appear by using the numeric clues already provided in the boxes. The more numbers you name, the easier it gets to solve the puzzle!
